

Join us for two days of training on leadership, organizational change and conversations that will leave you re-energized and with the tools you will need as a leader to rejuvenate your agencies sexual assault services.

The National Resource Sharing Project will be joining us to facilitate and share the findings from the final Sexual Assault Demonstration Initiative (SADI) report. SADI was the first large-scale national project to address the challenges dual/multi-service programs face in reaching sexual assault survivors by dedicating resources, support and replicable tools tailored specifically to the needs of those programs. More specifically, SADI can enhance the range of service options for victims of sexual assault; improve the overall treatment of sexual assault victims; and enhance the skills and knowledge of agency leadership to guide the sexual assault services of their agency.

These two days are mandatory for the Executive Directors of SASP 2018-2019 grantees.

Reimbursements for mileage and per-diem and lodging will be provided for Executive Directors (or another approved representative) to attend. Information in regards to registration, location and reimbursement process to follow.
